

THREATENED INDIAN WAR.

From The St. Joseph Journal, July 6.

A few days since we mentioned that an armed band of Cheyenne Indians had made a descent on a Pawnee village, and in the absence of the warriors, massacred the old men, women and children, and laid waste to their village. It appears that the Pawnees are now in pursuit of their enemies, and in their march are proving a scourge to the whites, thieving, robbing, and in some instances attacking those through whose settlements they are passing. The Omaha Nebraskan, of Saturday, July 2, says:

"Yesterday afternoon two men came into the city in great haste, bringing the intelligence that a party of eleven Pawnees had attacked four white settlements the night before, near the town of De Witt, Decatur County, some ten miles north-west of Fort Dodge, and about forty miles from this city. The settlers were repelled, with the loss of four, and a number killed. One of the whites was wounded, but not seriously."

"Our informant says that from 700 to 800 Pawnees warriors were engaged, but a short distance from the skirmish reported, and serious difficulties were apprehended. All the whites in that region had armed themselves, and were momentarily expecting a regular hostility. They brought a petition to Gov. Black, urging the necessity of calling out the militia for their protection. A small body of men well armed left this city for the seat of war last night, and others will follow to-day."

It is believed that the savages are a portion of a band sent out against the Cheyennes, and fears are entertained that they will ravage the settlements there before starting out. A couple of Pawnee ruffians, evidently spies, were arrested in this city last evening and lodged in jail. They were endeavoring to get out of town just as the armed force from here were starting.

A FATHER RUNNING OFF WITH HIS FAMILY.—On Saturday last an old negro man of Steubenville, named Tom Snowden, in connection with one or two other said negroes of that place, hitched up a couple of horses and went to West Liberty, in this county, for the purpose of carrying away a slave girl and her child, mother and brother, the property of Josiah Chapline. The old man, Snowden, is the father of the family. In the evening the family was sent down to the mouth of the Lame some distance from the house, where they were to take a carriage which was provided for that purpose. Some of the citizens of the vicinity, having observed the colored folks during the day, decided to watch their movements, and, when they copied the carriage as it was moving away with its load, the citizens demanded a halting and delivery of cold load. When the two parties came together, it is said, the old man Snowden fought desperately, and was several times knocked down before he would yield. All the negroes engaged in the affair, slave and free, were arrested, and committed to jail by a magistrate, brought to this city, and safely confined for trial, W.W. (Va.) Intelligencer, July 7.
